this book examines how the romantic and post romantic concept of irony provides the means for an uneasy articulation between philosophical thought and literary language it considers the role played by ironic disruptions in writings by friedrich schlegel søren kierkegaard friedrich nietzsche thomas mann jean paulhan jacques derrida paul de man and j m coetzee

the prayer and tears of jacques derrida takes its point of departure from derrida s more recent sometimes autobiographical writings and closely examines the religious motifs that have emerged in his later works john d caputo s provocative interpretation of derrida s thinking also makes an original contribution to the question of the relevance of deconstruction for religion caputo s derrida is a man of faith who bridges jewish and christian traditions the deep messianic apocalyptic and prophetic tones in derrida s writings caputo argues bespeak his broken covenant with judaism through its startling exploration of derrida s impossible religion the book sheds light on the implications of deconstruction for an understanding of religion and faith today from back cover whereas literary criticism has mainly oscillated between the death of the author barthes and the return of the author couturier this work suggests another perspective on authorship through an analysis of nabokov s prefaces it is here argued that the author being neither dead nor tyrannical alternates between authoritative apparitions and receding disappearances in the double gesture of mastery without mastery which derrida calls exappropriation that is a simultaneous attempt to appropriate one s work control it have it under one s power and expropriate it losing control by loosening one s grip the intention of this is to approach through one s experience of reading and interpreting the experience of self effacement and impersonality pertaining to writing cf blanchot prefaces are considered to be suitable places for the deconstruction of the classical image of nabokov s arrogance through the unearthing of his reserve and vulnerability this work provides an account of the mere intuition which therefore does not pretend to be a conclusive and definitive interpretation of another image of nabokov whose undeniable talent for deception seems in accordance with a need for discretion and secrecy this book explores how modern russian cinema is part of the international information war that has unfolded across a variety of battlefields including social media online news and television it outlines how russian cinema has been instrumentalized both by the kremlin s allies and its detractors to convey salient political and cultural messages often in subtle ways thereby becoming a tool for both critiquing and serving domestic and foreign policy objectives shaping national identity and determining cultural memory it explains how regulations legislation and funding mechanisms have rendered contemporary cinema both an essential weapon for the kremlin and a means for more independent figures to publicly frame official government policy in addition the book employs formal cinematic analysis to highlight the dominant themes and narratives in modern russian films of a variety of genres situating them in russia s broader rhetorical ecosystem and explaining how they serve the objectives of the kremlin or its opponents contains essays and studies by critics and cultural historians from both hemispheres as well as substantial reviews of books and essays dealing with medieval and early modern english drama this work addressed topics ranging from local drama in the shrewsbury borough records to the cornish mermaid in the ordinalia
